SEYMOUR'S CANDIDACY.

A large number of Democrats are auxions to make a second Cineinastus out of Horatio Seymour. Though "he himself has said it, and it is greatly to his credit," that he liad no desire to hold public office, and that he has reached that age when he should live quietly, and prepare for the future, the wires keep whispering that the old man would not refuse the nomination should it be condered him. We are not at all inclined to believe that Seymour countenances this rank zeal of his admirers. The boom is caused, no doubt, by John Kelly men, who hope to prevent Mr, Tilden from having the New York delegation, and believe that could Seymour be induced to heed their request and allow his name to be used, that the effect would be sufficient to cause Mr. Tilden's star to pale. The Democracy would display shrewdness, were they to adopt the move. Seymour would harmonize all discordant elements in the their attention to saving the Capital Empire State, and the Tammanyites would lie down in the Tildenites' trandle bed. Beymour is strong before the paople; he carried New York before against Grant, when the General was in the hevday of his prosperity, and we believe he could carry it again. 'But we dismiss further speculation until the question of his candidacy is definitely settled.

That the Democracy will do anything and everything to win has received another affidavit by the fusion made with the sandlots, as against Republicans, to which by this time was all ablaze under-carry the San Francisco election. We neath. After being driven away from would be unjust did we not add, however, that the fusion was opposed by many of the better class, who joined with the Republicans to overthrow the common enemy.

A rumor is current that a new com pany, in opposition to the Pacific Mail, is about to be organized by several New York capitalists, who propose to equip the line with five first-class new steamers, capable of averaging not less than 13 knots per hour, making the trip between New York and San Francisco in 20 days.

(Battle Mountain Messenger Brira, Bunday March 28th, 1880]

At half past one o'clock yesterday afternoon, and just as the mail liquid overland had pulled out of the depot, the Central Pacific Railroad Company's freight depot was discovered to be on fire. A general alarm was intinediately given and in a few moments almost the entire inhabitants of our town were out. The fire was first discovered in the west and of the peak of the 'post on the in-McWilliams' store, and the C.P. freight mde of the freight depot and in a moment it burst through the roof. As soon as discovered a number of men went upon the roof and, taking the water which is always kept there in case of an emergency, commenced to we down the roof, but although they did good, work the fire had gained too much holders abould be called immediately headway, owing to the territic gale for the purpose of devising means by blowing at the time, to be stopped. Which to more effectually light this deheadway, owing to the territic gale blowing at the time, to be stopped. Seeing that the depot was bound to go. all hands commenced to carry the books and furniture in the office out into the treet, thereby saving most of it. An effort was made to get out what freight gether with pipes and also connected remained in the depot, but the fire and with three or four of the natesian wells, smoke had by this time got down amongst it making it impossible to save anything whatever.

The flames had now gained such headway that all efforts to save the depot were given up and everyone turned Hotel, which is situated opposite (only the width of the two tracks intervening) and the warehouse of D. W. Earl's warehouse a like work was going on at the Capital Hotel, where water was being carried to the roof, which was kept pretty thoroughly wet down for awnile, but the heat became so intense that the bucket men had to gradually give way leaving the large building to the devouring elements, but not without a struggle, for most of them remained on the roof of the building long after the northwest end was infiames fighting the fire inch by inch, with the foriors hope that at least a portion of it could be saved, but no use, the fire fiend had marked it for its victim and nothing that human hands could do would now stop its mad career, and in a few moments the Capital Hotel was a smouldering mass of ruins.

Wells, Fargo & Co.'s office, which was in the southeast corner of the building, the Western Union Telegraph office (which also contained the watch repair shop of Mr. Davis) and the Mint eight stand, all adjoining the Express office, went with the rest. The express matter, books, papers, counters and safe were all saved. Mr. Davis got the most of his goods out of the office, but Carson Huntsman, proprietor of the Mint eight stand, lost about half of his stock, it being in the cellar. The two new billiard tables, lately put in the Capital Hotel billiard hall, were car-ried out as also the two smaller cabinets in the bar-room; the largest and finest cabinet was almost a total loss, only a portion of the specimens being saved. The piano and a small portion of the

The fire is supposed to have been the the time, and a few minutes before a pile of ore sacks lying on the platform were found to be on hre Another suspicious thing connected with this fire is that the carpenter shop adjoining the machine shops of the Nevada Central Railway, was discovered to be on fire ten minutes before. The workmen had all gone to dinner, leaving the place va-cant, thereby giving a clear field to any one bent on such a deed Luckily it was discovered in time to prevent the destruction of this valuable property.

The citizens all worked nobly, doing everything that lay in their power to save the buildings, furniture and merchandise, and deserve many thanks for the work they did. Judges, lawyers, merchants and other classes stood in manfully to help their neighbors and

ENGLAND'S VIEW.

The London Trace publishes the following editorial or the Panama Canal: "The lathmus in a heavier tax on the fevers and serving lazy negroes for a squatting ground, impress their mark bale of goods between the Old and a large part of the New World. The engineers, headed by M. de Lesseps, have planted the standard half the responsibility by shifting the burden of assent on the United States, out of whose opposition he has fashionform he proposes he will be able to argue that it is because of American success, the fire at that point being jealousy. Most patriotic Americans stayed in its fiendish work.

While all this was being done to save withhold on selfish grounds from the Earl's warehouse a like work was going the benefit promised by a stranger without assuming the liability in his stead. In the view of most American citizens the Monroe doctrine is a law of nature. It is now propounded that by the Monros doctrins a caual through the Isthmus at Panama or Nicaragua, or any other Isthmus which shortens the distance between the American continent and Europe, is virtually part of the coast line of the United States. Great Brit-ain, may congratulate, berself that the Caledonian Canal is already dug, for it might otherwise give rise to international complications.

> SUZEBAINS OF THE SOUTH. "The Monroe doctrine, even in its most restricted shape, was never admitted into the law of indefinite suzerainty from Mexico to Patagonia, though throughout this vast region the government of Washington exercises no power and acknowledges no duty to the populations which inhabit it. Europe could not recognize so gratuitous a de mand. An interoceanic canal would for every practical purpose form as much or as little a part of the European as of the United States coast line. But while Europe cannot concede the bare principle asserted by the President and the Select Committee there is no objection to the United States acquiring all the power it wants by subscribing the necessary capital. All that Europe wants is that the black earth, which the world regards as it might a sunken ship in the Medway or Loire, should be cleared away That the United States, by furnishing money, should obtain a and peaceable use of the new channel 14 what Europe, and particularly Great Britain, most desire; but the world is entitled to ask the United States to make up its mind either to let M. de Lessons do the thing himself, with the resources at his command, or to charge themselves with the task."

The proposition is for three viewers to be appointed, ene each from Reno, Honey Lake and Alturns, to go over the road, and if the report is favorable money for carrying the project through will not be lacking.

The Future Salmon Supply. Fish Commissioner Parker informad a Chronicle reporter that he had ment two man down to clear the willow dam from the mouth of Mud Lake. He says he is not doing this so much on acsount of the trout that the Renoites are lenging for, as of the 35 odd salmon which were planted in Presser creek by E. B. Redding, Fish Commissioner of California, in the year 1875. Prosser ereck is a tributary to the Truckee river and these fish having gone down, it is now time for them to come up. This event is looked for with great interest by the Fish Commissioners of both Cal-Hornia and Nevada.
